

Poster Session
Monday, April 30, 2018
6:00 – 7:00pm

Developing and Implementing a Research Special Interest Group for Instructional Designers

Presented by: Amanda Major and Rohan Jowallah (University of Central Florida)

Track: FL / Constituency: HE

Some instructional designers engage, conduct, and publish research in peer-reviewed journals. To assess engagement in these skills at one institution, a needs assessment was conducted leading to the creation of a course and a series of workshops intended to inspire instructional designers' research activity. Come learn more!

Effective Interaction and Communication Strategies Engage Student Learning

Presented by: Shu-Hui (Susan) Chang (Iowa State University)

Track: STP / Constituency: ALL

A challenging issue facing educators is how to interact with students and engage their learning. More than a dozen effective interaction and communication strategies and methods will be presented. These strategies and methods are integrated sound teaching pedagogies and practical technologies that effectively increase interactions and communication. Stop by to discuss!

Wrong? Try Again! Lessons From Program Changes In An Online Doctoral Program

Presented by: Keisha Kidan and Marlon Cummings

Track: STP / Constituency: HE

Six cohorts, 57 students, 5 faculty, one online doctoral program. Faculty desired a more connected online doctoral program but, state budget cuts meant there would be few resources available. Find out how faculty and staff built program connections, use student and faculty feedback, engage students and nurtured faculty development.