

Professional Development Opportunities in Educational Technology and Education

For May 14 to December 31, 2025, Edition #53

Prepared by Clayton R. Wright, crwr77 at gmail .com, May 13, 2025

The 53rd edition contains selected professional development opportunities that primarily focus on the use of technology in educational settings and on teaching, learning, and educational administration. Only listings until December 2025 are most complete as dates, locations, or Internet addresses (URLs) were not available for a number of events held after that date.

A significant challenge during the assembly of this list is incomplete or conflicting information on websites and the lack of a link between conference websites from one year to the next.

An explanation for the content and format of the list can be found at <http://newsletter.alt.ac.uk/2011/08/why-distribute-documents-in-ms-word-or-openoffice-for-an-international-audience/>. A Word or an OpenOffice format is used to enable people with limited or high-cost Internet access to find a professional development opportunity that is congruent with their interests or obtain abstracts or event proceedings. Consider using the "Find" tool under Microsoft Word's "Edit" tab or similar tab in OpenOffice to locate the name of a particular event, association, city, or country. If you enter the country "Australia" or place, such as "Vancouver" in the "Find" tool, all events that occur in Australia or Vancouver will be highlighted. However, note that there is a Vancouver in Canada and a Vancouver in Washington State, 450 km south of the Canada/USA border. Or, enter the word "artificial intelligence" or "AI". (Note that key words such as "artificial intelligence" or "AI" may not be present in the conference title, yet these topics could be discussed during a particular conference.) Then, "cut and paste" a list of suitable events for your colleagues.

Please note that events, dates, titles, and locations may change and some events may be cancelled. Thus, CHECK the specific event website not only for basic information, but to assure yourself that the event is legitimate. Some events are not quality-focused. I genuinely try to compile a list of events that will give you value for your time and money. But I may not always succeed. Take the time to conduct your own due diligence for any events you want to attend or submit a paper to. You could consider using the checklists at Think Check Attend, <https://thinkcheckattend.org/> which "aims to guide and assist researchers and scholars to judge the legitimacy and academic credentials of conferences in order to help them decide whether to or not attend." Also, you may want to refer to "How to Make the Most of an Academic Conference" by Thomas J. Tobin.

All Web addresses were verified at the time of publication. No liability is assumed for any errors that may have been introduced inadvertently during the assembly of this FREE list of events. Kindly retain the contact information when you re-distribute the list or mount it on the web as that is how I receive notices of future events. crw

May 29, 2025 Artificial Intelligence Is Revolutionising the Workforce...But Should It Revolutionise Education? "Calls for systemic change in education are nothing new, but the rise of Generative AI has brought about a new sense of urgency for an 'Educational Revolution'. The Tech Industry points to the benefits of personalising access to the world's information using this emerging technology. But as students, teachers and leaders increasingly delegate their cognition to machines, will we risk losing something inherently human in the pursuit of speed and efficiency? This session will argue that educators need to reflect about both the form and function of Education as we respond to the challenges and opportunities that AI is bringing to our classrooms." May 29-30, 2025 European Security 2.0: Reassessing Security after Munich. “This workshop focuses on European Security in a changing security environment. A particular focus will be on transatlantic relations. For some time, the U.S. has shifted its focus away from Europe toward the Indo-Pacific and considers China as its key strategic competitor, increasing pressure on the EU to invest in European security. At the same time, the EU is faced with the administration of U.S. President Trump who is skeptical of multilateral cooperation and international institutions – including of NATO and the EU and has expressed support for illiberal actors within the EU...These developments raise important questions, including can the EU strengthen its international actorness to meet key challenges in security and defense? Is strategic autonomy viable? What consequences are there for Europe's security architecture and the delicate EU-NATO relationship? Will states work together or reassert national security prerogatives?” Organized by the University Association for Contemporary European Studies (UACES). May 29-31, 2025 Jean Piaget Society (JPS) Annual Meeting: Rethinking context as process when studying human development - Implications for theory, practice, and policy, 54th. “Revisits the premise shared by most modern scholars that human development is always contextualized. While context has increasingly been incorporated into developmental science, it has been viewed causally in many studies, as an external variable that stands apart from the developing person. However, the context is more than this. Many studies have begun conceptualizing context more dynamically with participants in interaction actively and reflexively shaping context as much as context shapes interactions.” Belgrade, Serbia.

June 3, 2025 Access and Geopolitics: Next Steps in Tackling the Equity Crisis in Global Higher Education. “Across the world, policies promoting equitable access to higher education are facing a populist backlash. Existing inequalities are themselves fuelling suspicion and resentment of equity and diversity policies. At the same time fewer than 20% of states have specific policies or have set targets for tackling inequalities in participation, progression and success. Fewer still are addressing the needs of the most marginalised, such as people with disabilities. The costs of funding fair access initiatives are often prohibitive, and the rise of private HE provision presents new challenges...[This workshop] will bring together scholars working on equitable access, participation and progression within higher education from across the globe. Organized by the World Access to Higher Education Network (WAHEN) and the University of Oxford’s Centre for Global Higher Education (CGHE) and Centre on Skills, Knowledge and Organisational Performance (SKOPE). Offered online via Zoom and in Oxford, United Kingdom. <https://researchcghe.org/events/> or <https://www.researchcghe.org/events/access-and-geopolitics-next-steps-in-tackling-the-equity-crisis-in-global-higher-education/>

October 6-10, 2025 American Association for Adult and Continuing Education (AAACE) International Conference and Exposition: Bridging the Generational Divide – Recognizing the Roots and Branches of the Field of Adult Education, 74th annual. “Eduard Lindeman published The Meaning of Adult Education in 1926. This text serves as the seminal work that has inspired almost 100 years of adult education. With this impetus, approximately 75 years ago, adult education formed this association from a confluence of related disciplines (including psychology, philosophy, and pedagogy). Like a variety of trees in a sustainable diverse forest, the roots of our field go deep. We are inclusive of many approaches, aspects, and varieties of educators – as seen through the multiple commissions in AAACE. AAACE serves as a nurse log to grow and nurture the new generation of adult educators. By working together, we create a robust and flourishing ecosystem. During this 99th year of our field, I would like us to be both reflective and forward looking.” To be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, USA. <https://www.aaace.org/page/Conference>

December 2-11, 2025 Consulting Skills Certificate. “Whether you consider yourself a consultant or not, chances are you use consulting skills in your work projects closely related to your area of expertise, such as designing a custom training program, or ones you may not see as closely related, such as building and implementing a learning technology system. Regardless of your position, talent professionals must demonstrate strong consulting skills to lead the execution of learning solutions within an organization... ATD’s Consulting Skills Certificate program provides you with a five-phase consulting model—rooted in a performance-based approach that prioritizes results over activities—that you can use to diagnose needs, establish goals, and achieve desired performance outcomes for your learning projects. Organized by the Association for Talent Development (ATD, USA). Offered on different dates online and in-person such as Shanghai, China and New York City, USA. This July session will be held online.

December 3-5, 2025 Facilitating Live, Online Sessions. “With the growth of technologies that support live, online sessions (e.g. Zoom, GoToMeeting, Adobe Connect, etc.), the term distance learning is becoming a misnomer. More of us are meeting, teaching, and presenting in face-to-face, synchronous (real-time) online sessions where we can feel closer than ever to students and colleagues in online learning environments. Instructional sessions with groups of students, individual “office hours,” webinars, meetings, and trainings can all take place in a live, online session. While presenting online is an in-demand skill, few people have been taught how to conduct this type of learning experience. Not to worry — this workshop will turn you from novice to expert online facilitator in just three days.” Organized by the Online Learning Consortium (OLC) based in Boston, Massachusetts, USA. To be held online. <https://my.onlinelearningconsortium.org/OLC/s/institute-schedule?id=a2n1U000000b3EC> or <https://my.onlinelearningconsortium.org/s/community-event?id=a1YQi000001RcwfMAC>
